

Associate, Engineering

Newark, DE (2-3 days a week onsite)

Start Date: 01/08/2024

Base compensation: $75,000

What You'll Contribute

The Associate, Engineering will be responsible for supporting the planning, administration, and technical support of operating system capabilities. Includes designing, developing, and troubleshooting or debugging software programs for enhancements and new products.

What You'll Do

Assist in the development and implementation of engineering solutions, adhering to best practices and project requirements.

Conduct testing and quality assurance activities to ensure the reliability and functionality of deliverables.

Help troubleshoot technical issues and provide support to resolve challenges during project execution.

Create and maintain accurate and up-to-date documentation related to engineering projects.

Prepare reports and summaries to communicate project progress, milestones, and outcomes.

The above information is intended to describe the general nature and level of work performed by employees assigned to this job; it is not designed to contain or be interpreted as a comprehensive inventory of all duties, responsibilities and qualifications required of employees in this role.

What you have

Minimum education, skills and experience required.

Basic understanding of software development methodologies and principles.

Proficiency in SQL or other programming languages and related tools.

Strong problem-solving and analytical thinking skills.

Excellent communication and interpersonal skills.

Detail-oriented with a focus on quality and accuracy.

Preferred education, skills, and experience.

Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Engineering, or a related field (or equivalent work experience).

Basic understanding of SQL or other programming language.

The Americans with Disabilities Act

The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) prohibits discrimination by employers, in compensation and employment opportunities, against qualified individuals with disabilities who, with or without reasonable accommodation, can perform the "essential functions" of a job. A function may be essential for any of several reasons, including: the job exists to perform that function, the employee holding the job was hired for his/her expertise in performing the function, or only a limited number of employees are available to perform that function.